WELCOME IS GIVEN THRONG GATHERED FOR CHURCH MEET

Thousand Greeted At Opening Of Conference

MESSAGES READ

"Christian General" Now At War, Sends Word

At a few minutes after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon there convened in Shanghai what is probably the largest conference of any kind ever held in China. When Bishop Graves formally opened the National Christian Conference the Town Hall was filled to capacity; back from the platform extended a sea of faces—men and women, Chinese and foreigners, pioneers and "griffins" (for there are 'griffin' missionaries as well as griffins of the laity), old and young—a cross section of the leadership of the Christian Church in all of the 19 Provinces. There were about 1,000 persons in attendance for the opening session.

For almost two years this great gathering has been in preparation, 400 people have worked on the surveys and reports which are to be brought before the Conference and the staff of the China Continuation Committee at 5 Quinsan Gardens has given almost entire time to preliminary plans. The concrete of this long period of preparation in yesterday's gathering was therefore a stirring sight.

HYMNS BLEND DIALECTS

As the opening hymn began, each singing in his own language or dialect but all drawn into harmony by music and their common purpose one got something of the power of a great cause which could bring and hold together people of such great differences. Bishop Graves dwelt upon this fact in his address of welcome. An explanation of this was given by Rev. Z. T. Kaung Vice-Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, who gave the principal address of the afternoon.

Mr. Kaung wasted no words in going straight to the point of the most critical issue before the Conference, the establishment of the Chinese Church following the pioneer years of mission work. His address was directed to the Chinese delegates as those upon whom the first responsibility was destined to fall.

CALLS ON CHINESE

"You have been longing for your own Chinese Church" said Mr. Kaung, "and the time has come. This gathering will be the birth-place of the Christian Church of China. We are at the close of the first hundred years of the work of the Missionaries of the West. To show our gratitude for what they have done for our country we must measure up to what our spiritual parents expect of us. We, the Chinese people, must now assume leadership of our own church."

Consul-General Cunningham expressed the sympathetic interest with which the foreign community is watching the results of this great Conference. He spoke of the heavy responsibility resting upon the mission body each one of whom must stand as a representative of his own government, and of the trust with which the Chinese in general have regarded this group of foreigners. The success of their enterprise in China, the American Consul-General claimed, is evidenced in this Conference which marks the end of the epoch of sowing on the part of the foreigner and the beginning of the reaping process in the promised establishment of a native church.

Further greetings from governing and commercial elements among the Chinese were brought by Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, C. F. Hsu, representing the Tuchun of Kiangsu, and by Mr. C. C. Nieh, Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

Complexion Cream, Dainty Damsels And Dancing Recipe For Longevity

MR. James M. Peebles, centenarian, noted Los Angeles physician and the oldest man listed in "Who's Who," has announced to the world his secret of rejuvenation. Here it is: "Nimble dancing, dainty damsels and complexion cream." And to prove that his recipe for longevity is "there" the centenarian danced a dapper jig on the porch of his Los Angeles home. Dr. Peebles is a graduate of several medical colleges.

COUNT MOLTKE, DANISH MISSION LEADER, ILL HERE

Former Chamberlain To King Of Denmark Confined To Hospital

Count J. Moltke, formerly for twenty years chamberlain to the King of Denmark and at present representative for the Danish Missionary Societies at the National Christian Conference, is at present confined to the General Hospital suffering from the effects of the long sea voyage to Shanghai and subsequent strain of preliminary work in connection with the conference. His condition is attributed to overwork and exhaustion and it is hoped that rest will bring a complete recovery.

Count Moltke is 65 years of age and is widely known in Denmark and throughout Europe for his tireless work in mission and student movements. For many years he has kept in constant touch with these movements both in and out of his own country and his large estate in Denmark has been at the disposal of the student and mission cause. He was for fifteen years a member of the Board of Missionary Societies of Denmark and until recently was also a very active member of the committee of the student movement.

Count Moltke arrived here about ten days ago and immediately plunged into the work leading up to the conference which opened yesterday. This is his second trip to China. His first visit was made some twelve years ago when he made a trip through China and Manchuria visiting mission centers.

U. S. Army Captain Wounded In France

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Mayence, May 1.—An American Army Captain was wounded by manifestants during the May Day demonstrations. The Captain's automobile ran into a parade of demonstrators, who threatened the Captain. He drew a pistol, which one of the mob grabbed and discharged into the Captain's shoulder. The French police have made several arrests.

KOREAN WHO KILLED MRS. W. J. SNYDER BREAKS JAIL

Assassin Escapes With Japanese Prisoner

POLICE IN SEARCH

Settlements Combed But No Trace Is Found

Forcing his cell door and breaking open another door which barred his exit, Au Soong Nyuin, the Korean who killed Mrs. W. J. Snyder and, with a companion, ran amuck and wounded four other persons after an attempt to assassinate General Baron Tanaka on March 28, made his escape from the Japanese Consular jail early yesterday morning. Up to a late hour last night no trace of the escaped assassin, nor of another Japanese prisoner who broke jail at the same time, had been found.

Details of the manner in which the escape was effected would not be given out by the Japanese Consular officials yesterday but it is believed that Au was assisted by the Japanese prisoner who occupied the same cell, serving a term for larceny. The cell door was either cut or forced and the prisoner must have been in possession of a file it is believed, for he was shackled.

POLICE SEARCHING CITY

The escape occurred between the hours of 1 and 2 a.m., it is believed, though it was not discovered until 6 o'clock. The two men were in the cell and apparently securely confined at midnight.

Immediately after the discovery of the break the police of the International and French Settlements were notified and the various stations were instructed to have men on the lookout for the two escaped prisoners. Au was dressed in the Chinese costume which he wore at the time of the tragedy at the Customs jetty and his photograph was sent out for distribution thoroughout the force. It is believed that the two prisoners would separate immediately after leaving the Consulate premises, but the Japanese districts are being carefully watched for both the Korean and the Japanese fugitives. The Japanese had been in jail for two months.

OTHER IS IN CUSTODY

Au, with his companion Kim Eak Sang—who is still in custody at the Japanese jail—were awaiting transportation to Nagasaki, where they were to face trial in the higher court. The preliminary hearing here had been concluded, formal evidence of the affair on the Bund being given and both the Koreans had signed confessions to the effect that it was their intent to assassinate Baron Tanaka.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Snyder was killed by Au shortly after the tender from the Pine Tree State docked at the Customs Jetty on March 28. General Baron Tanaka was a passenger. As the passengers reached the open space from the Customs shed, Au commenced firing. Mrs. Snyder was in such a position to mask the Japanese general. As the pistol cracked, she threw up her arms and fell, dying in the General Hospital forty minutes later.

WOUNDED FOUR

Following the fusillade at the jetty, Au and Kim dashed into Hankow and Kiukiang Roads respectively, still firing their pistols, bullets from which wounded a Chinese policeman, two coolies and Mr. H. A. Thompson, the latter being shot through the chest when he gallantly grappled with Kim and brought him to earth on Kiukiang Road. Au was captured by a Sikh policeman after a chase.

Chicago Police Adopt Use Of Radio To Fight Crime

THE Chicago Police Department in an extensive campaign against crime, has installed a radio system whereby officers on patrol duty are constantly in touch with headquarters. Each patrolman is furnished a pocket wireless set, by means of which he is able to pick up messages sent from headquarters. If a report is received at headquarters in connection with a holdup or murder the alarm is immediately broadcasted to men on their "beats." A flying squadron of automobile radio stations also is included. The automobiles are equipped with transmitting and receiving sets and are proving invaluable as purveyors of official information while in pursuit of criminals. This group of pictures introduces various phases of the system now in operation in Chicago.

CHINA MERCHANTS STEAMER BURNS IN RIVER AT HANKOW

Kiangtung, On Up-River Run, Reported A Total Loss

The China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company's up-river steamer Kiangtung, bound from Ichang to Hankow, was destroyed by fire last Sunday evening when nearing the latter port, according to word received by the local offices of the company. So far as is known no lives were lost.

Details of the disaster had not yet been received up to last night, but the local offices have wired for a full report. Some reports stated that a number of lives had been lost through drowning, but the company's message stated that all were saved. All freight and mails, however, were destroyed and it is stated that the steamer is a total loss. The fire started in the forehold. Its origin is not yet known.

The Kiangtung was on the Hankow-Ichang run and was under command of Captain K. W. Evenson. There were two other foreign officers, the chief officer and chief engineer.

Tokio Cabinet To Quit, Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 2.—Well-informed newspapers this morning assert that the Premier has requested the resignations of the Ministers of Home Affairs, Agriculture, Education and Railways, with the possible result of all the Cabinet Ministers resigning and thus leaving Viscount Takahashi free completely to reorganise the Ministry. The decision of the Cabinet may be announced after the meeting this afternoon.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, May 2.—The feud among members of the Government and the Seiyukai Party over the plan for the reconstruction of the Takahashi Cabinet has become so serious that the situation has become critical. In consequence, Premier Takahashi is now reported to have decided to carry out the projected reconstruction immediately, in view of the fact that the longer the plan be delayed in its execution, the worse the minds of members of the Government and the Seiyukai Party will become. It is therefore expected that the plan will be realised before long.

Confucian Press Agents Were Actively On The Job

By Elsie McCormick

(This is the fourth of a series of articles on the birthplace and life of Confucius.)

Perhaps the reason why the life of Confucius has not drawn unto itself various exotic growths in the form of miracle tales is the merciless note-taking on the part of the Sage's disciples. Poor Confucius had, to use Irvin Cobb's simile, about as much privacy as a goldfish.

We used to feel sorry for the Emperors of ancient dynasties, whose every word was scribbled down on ivory tablets by an industrious court reporter. During the course of a reign, an Emperor could acquire enough embalmed conversation to equal a whole shelf of the Congressional Record. Imagine, however, the strain of always talking for publication, the impossibility of contradicting one's self or indulging in a white society lie without running the danger of having someone look up the remarks made day before yesterday. Consider, too, the awkward situation of the Emperor whose original jokes were a bit sparse and who was given occasionally to repeating himself. The contemptuous glitter in the eye of the court scribe who had written down the same story six times before must have taken all the zest out of it as far as the Emperor was concerned.

THE PUNCTUAL SAGES

Compared with Confucius, however, the Emperor's lives were as private as those of Himalayan hermits. Not only did the Sage's disciples dutifully scribble down everything he said; they also wrote details of his personal life with such exactitude that he might just as well have dwelt in a house of glass. They saw fit to record, for instance, that Confucius would not eat meat that was clumsily cut or lacked the proper sauce; that he took ginger at every meal; that he was fond of azure, carnation, and yellow garments; that he never conversed after going to bed; and that when out in his carriage, he never pointed at objects with his finger. We remember being told in our childhood, whenever we happened to upset soup on the tablecloth, that George Washington never spilled anything. Probably Chinese children have been told through so many generations that Confucius never pointed with his finger, thus accounting for the national habit of using the chin instead.

It is proof of the greatness of Confucius that he managed to survive this publicity ordeal without appearing absolutely ridiculous. A number of ever-present disciples with well-sharpened lead-pencils and a complete lack of the gift of artistic suppression can do more harm to a their master's memory than a whole society of blackmailers. Confucius came through the literary fires nobly, without singeing more than the tassels of his dignity, whereas a lesser man would have been reduced to a cinder.

ROBBED OF MYSTERY

It was the ardent scribbling of his disciples that prevented Confucius from becoming a superhuman and legendary hero like Lao-tze or the Emperor Yao. Posterity defies only those whose lives are wrapped in an obscuring mist. No matter how godly his attributes, one cannot imagine society setting the crown of divine origin on a man whose disciples record that he liked ginger with every meal and that he had a fussy, spinsterish habit of pulling a mat absolutely straight before he would sit on it.

What history did to Lao-tze, is a sample of what can happen to a religious leader when the absence of faithful recorders unleashes the popular imagination. It was not the dimming effect of time that distorted the worthy protagonist of the Tao, because he was almost contemporaneous with Confucius. It was only the lack of those ordinary details of daily living that take the popular conception of a man out of the clouds and put him on the ground with other men.

Lao-tze was born in the Kingdom of Chou and served there for a time as Keeper of the Archives. Then, after having thought long on the problems of philosophy, he concluded that the highest good could be found in reducing the spirit to a condition of stillness and emptiness for it was only in the silence and the dark that the eternal river of Tao could flow through the soul, bringing peace and divine solace in its unchanging current. In order to remove from his spirit the obstructions of material desires, Lao-tze retired from the court and spent the rest of his life in a mountain retreat preaching and practising his way to salvation.

HIS TWENTY TOES

These are about the only phases of his career that will stand the challenge of historical criticism. It was only a short time after his death that the unfortunate Lao-tze found himself endowed with ten toes on

CHANG CONCENTRATING TROOPS FOR DECISIVE BATTLE NEAR TIENTSIN

Fengtien Army Apparently Has Better Of Struggle Thus Far; Reports Of Repulse In Previous Battles Erroneous

NO WORD OF WU PEI-FU'S MOVEMENTS

London Hears That Washington Attributes Outbreak Of Hostilities To Japanese Intrigues; Fleet Movements Significant

BY BERT L. KUHN

Staff Correspondent the China Press

Tientsin, May 1.—A personal inspection of the Peking-Tientsin line disproves earlier reports that the Fengtien forces had been routed near Huangsintien. Chang Tso-lin is holding both banks of the Hun river, his line extending two or three miles to the west in some sections. Severe fighting continues on all fronts.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 2.—The Westminster Gazette's correspondent at Washington thinks th at the despatch of warships from the United States to North China ports and the reinforcement of the slender United States' forces in North China reveals that the belief is held that the political disintegration of the Peking Government is proceeding rapidly. No proofs are advanced, but it is said at Washington with increasing frequency and emphasis that all these distressing developments spring from Japanese intrigues.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, May 2.—General Chang Tso-lin was rushing reinforcements up to the front yesterday afternoon.

The special correspondent of the Star returned last night from Maching and reports that yesterday the Fengtien troops held no territory west of Puto Ho, but still held the bridgeheads of the town

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 2.—Three Japanese destroyers, the Ayanami, Isonami and Uranami, left for Tientsin from Port Arthur yesterday night.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Genoa, May 1.—Mr. Lloyd George yesterday announced the receipt of an official despatch from Peking to the effect that Generals Chang Tso-lin and Wu Pei-fu have agreed to exclude Peking and Tientsin from their field of military operations.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, May 2.—Undoubtedly there was considerable fighting yesterday not very far south of Fengtai and Loafa but this morning's Peking train arrived fairly punctually. The passengers report that no fighting took place today, the Fengtien troops occupying the railway with no sign of Chihli troops being near them.

Fengtien reinforcements are continuing to arrive at Machang this morning from Chunliangchun.

Admiral Threatens To Blow Up Railway

(Kuo Wen News Agency)

Nanking, May 2.—Admiral Tu Shih-kuei, Commander of the First Division of the Navy, has, through the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Wen Shih-chen, addressed letters to all members of the local Consular Body informing them of his intention to use gunboats to blow up the Peking-Mukden Railway, near Chinwangtao, and thus cut off the bringing of reinforcements and supplies south by the Fengtien army. If they attempt to retreat, they will be unable to do so. Admiral Tu states that the railways will be blown up in three days' time, and asks the Consuls to warn their nationals from using this line, otherwise he will not be responsible for the consequences.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, May 2.—A despatch from Chefoo states that Chinese men-of-war, now in Chefoo, are the Yung Chih, the Chu Tung, the Chu Kuan and the Hai Chou. It is reported in Chinese naval circles that the men-of-war intend patroling the coast of Shantung, but judging from the opinion expressed by Admiral Tu Shih-kuei, Commander of the 2nd Chinese Squadron, it seems probable that they will take steps toward assisting the Chihli faction. Anyhow, the Chinese public here is watching the attitude of the Squadron with keen interest.

Hankow, May 2.—Since the outbreak of hostilities between the Chihli and Fengtien troops, the Chihli troops have established supply depots in the six important places on the Peking-Hankow Railway, namely, Hankow, Chengchow, Loyang, Shihchiachuang, Paotingfu and Chochow. Military stores for the use of the Chihli forces are mainly being transported from Hankow, from where sixteen hundred boxes of bullets and eight hundred shells were recently despatched to the North. It is reported that one hundred machine-guns and eleven heavy machine-guns were as well sent to the front from the Hanyang Arsenal.

(China Press Service)

Peking, May 2.—Two General officers killed and one wounded testifies to the intensity of the fighting near Changhsintien. The dead are General Tung of the Chihli forces and the Fengtien General Liang Chou-tung. Among the wounded is General Liang of the Mukden army.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 1.—After the lull during the night, fighting was resumed at Changhsintien this morning, chiefly with machine-guns and rifles, the Chihli forces attacking. Early in the afternoon the Fengtien soldiers were handicapped by a shortage of ammunition, but supplies were quicly brought up after which the Chihli troops made no headway, and late in the afternoon they retired to Lulihou.

The fighting throughout was very heavy and the casualties numerous. The Chihli forces made a gallant attempt to turn both flanks. Brisk fighting also occurred on the bank of the Hunho, where the Fengtieners had been driven from Kuan by general Ching Fu-lai.

Changsintien station this afternoon was crowded with Fengtien wounded, while numerous others reached Fengtai. Several truckloads of wounded also arrived at the Chienmen. No details are obtainable regarding the Chihli losses.

It is reported that the Chihli General, Tung Chen-kun, and the Fengtien General Liang Choutung, where killed, and General Tsu Feng, Commandant of the Fengtien Sixteenth Division, wounded.

The strain of the heavy fighting is said to be telling on the Fengtieners, while Chihli is sending fresh troops into the field daily. Further desperate Chihli efforts to take Changsintien are expected tomorrow.

Peking, May 1.—This morning the Chihli forces pressed back the Fengtien troops along the Hunho River in the direction of the Marco Polo Bridge but failing to reach the bridge they retired nearly to their former positions.

To the Westward of Changsintien the Chihli forces established contact with a portion of the Fengtien sixteenth Division, which latter suffered consMerably. The fighting continues there, otherwise the situation at Changsintein is virtually unchanged.

On the middle front, the Chihli forces after taking Ku-an, threw back the Fengtien troops in the direction of the river where the fighting is still going on. The Fengtien troops are counter-attacking, supported by guns from the other side of the river.

On the Eastern front large Chihli forces from Shantung are proceeding Northwards with the intention of joining General Wu Pei-fu at Jen-Kin, where a big concentration is taking place preparatory to an attack on the Fengtien troops at Machang. This will represent the main operation which General Wu Pei-fu will command personally.

Up to the present the Fengtien troops have fought well and the campaign promises to be a severe one unless General Wu Pei-fu effects another of the coups for which he is so justly famous.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, May 1.—According to an announcement of the headquarters here of the Fengtien troops, in a fierce battle in the district of Changheintien yesterday, General Tung Chen-kuo, Commander of the 13th Mixed Brigade of the Chihli troops was killed by a stray bullet.

It is reported that of the Fengtien troops, some 200 soldiers have been killed and wounded up to the present as against upward of 300 Chihli soldiers and that the Fengtien troops have captured two battalions of the Chihli troops.

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Tientsin, May 1.—The Peking-Mukden Railway is now badly disorganised and it is very doubtful whether the afternoon trains to and from Peking will run.

(China Press Correspondence)

Changlihsien, April 30.—The members of the Fengtien troops quartered here are making excursions out into the surrounding country, levying on the farmers for chickens, grain and supplies of all kinds. No one dares to ask for pay. At Hou Feng T'ai, 12 li from here, it is reported they stole two girls.

Another shop was visited in the East Suburb yesterday, and the proprietor touched for a "loan" of $200. In every case strict secrecy is enjoined on the victim, he being intimidated with threats of being revisited and cleaned out properly if he lets it be known that he has been robbed.

LONDON FAIRLY WELL SATISFIED WITH THE BUDGET

Some Papers Complain Of Lack Of "Real Economies"

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 2.—The budget is greeted with a certain amount of satisfaction. The morning papers, which, however, are far from enthusiastic, freely voice criticisms and all point out that Sir Robert Horne's statement did not contain surprises.

It is declared that concessions to tax-payers were not made out of any real surplus but by partly suspending the sinking fun and partly borrowing. This is declared in some quarters as not sound finance as it leaves the country's capital responsibilities to take care of themselves. The Government's failure to effect real economies is emphasised. It is suggested that the budget was framed on the Micawber practice and that after the tax-payers' sacrifices it will please nobody.

A labor organ alleges that the budget constitutes a series of concessions to the rich. Broadly, taxation reductions are welcomed and the view is expressd that money would be more profitably spent in fostering trade than in paying off liabilities that are not urgent.

(Note—A detailed account of the introduction of British budget will be found on page 16 of today's issue of THE CHINA PRESS.)

ALL JAPANESE TROOPS ARE NOW OUT OF SHANTUNG

Peking Gets Permission To Send Rifles By Steamer

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, May 2.—According to foreign authorities, the Japanese troops stationed along the Shantung Railway have been withdrawn completely and the Chinese police guards have undertaken defense duties. Owing to the fact that part of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway has been destroyed the transportation of arms for the use of the Chinese railway guards has been made impossible. Under the circumstances, the Peking Government on April 28 approached the Japanese Legation at Peking, requesting the latter to allow 300 rifles and 60,000 rounds of bullets to be transported to Tsingtao by sea and to be delivered to the Chinese railway guards.

Accordingly, Mr. Yoshida, the Charge d'Affairs of the Japanese Legation at Peking, referred the matter to a conference of the Diplomatic Corps with the result that the Ministers of the Powers have approved of the proposal by the Peking Government.

The Japanese Legation then, by way of precaution, made inquiries into particulars as to the actual condition of the damaged part of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway and as to whether or not the Chinese railway guards were armed with rifles, as the result of which China's representations were verified.

Welcome For Church Throng

reading of a message sent by General Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian General, through Mr. K. R. Anderson. General Feng expressed his regret that owing to the present military situation it had been impossible for him to send to the Conference a representative of the Christian constituency in his army and asked to have brought before the Conference the following four requests:

(1) The urgent need of more workers for the propagation of the Gospel in Shensi; (2) the need of schools of industry for the youth of the church to provide a means of independence for themselves and a source of self-support for the church; (3) the need of true spiritual power in the church and its activities; (4) the need of some mode of united action by the whole church in China.

SPEAK FOR LOCAL BODIES

The greetings of the various church bodies were extended by the Rev. A. N. Rowland, speaking for the foreign churches of Shanghai, and by the Rev. T. E. Shen, speaking for the Chinese Pastors' Association. Mr. Rowland claimed that this Conference will advance the time when China will bring its own great contribution to Christianity, which will be complete only when it has been adapted to all countries. He expressed the hope that the delegates will find the fullest welcome in both the homes and churches of Shanghai. A cable of greeting sent by the Conference of Missionary Societies of Great Britain and Ireland was read by Bishop Graves.

A pleasing feature of the session was the distinctness with which the words of each of the speakers could be heard at all points in the big auditorium. This was due to the installation of electric amplifiers on the speakers' platform, overcoming thereby the bad acoustic properties of the hall and enabling even those in the back rows to understand without effort the addresses in their entirety.

The meeting closed at 5 o'clock, thus giving the delegates a generous amount of time on the first day of the Conference to become settled and ready for the strenuous work of the coming nine days.

Today's program, after the opening address by Dr. Cheng Ching-yi, will be largely given to a study of the "Present Status of Christianity in China." Both the strength and the weakness of the Christian church in China will be shown up in accurate and unsparing terms and the Stereopticon Survey given in the evening will send the delegates into the following sessions with a scientific knowledge upon which to build all of their future findings.

PARALLEL MEETINGS

The first of the parallel meetings to be held for the benefit of those of the foreign community wishing to keep in close touch with the program of the National Conference will take place at Union Church this afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

The meeting will be addressed by three speakers: Dr. Franklin, of the Northern Baptist Missionary Society, who will speak concerning the Conference from the point of the home base; Bishop Hind, of the Church Missionary Society, Foochow, who will speak concerning the point of view of the missionary in the field, and Mr. Thomas Tchou, of the National Committee of the Y.M.C.A. who will speak on the point of view of the Chinese Christian.

Asks Security Be Cancelled In Case Of Hongkong Chinese

Mr. F. W. Hadley appeared before Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday for cancellation of security on behalf of a Chinese previously employed by Messrs. Anderson Meyer and Co. and charged six months ago with embezzling Hongkong $14,000, from the firm.

When the Chinese assistant was charged he claimed that he had given this sum to a French gentleman in the office of Messrs. Anderson Meyer and Co. The firm accepted this statement and were prepared to withdraw the charge against the Chinese provided he furnished security for $1,000 to be present in Shanghai whenever called upon.

The charge against the Frenchman was preferred in the French Court at Tientsin, and the Chinese had already made a statement in the affidavit filed before the French Court at Tientsin, counsel said.

Mr. Hadley submitted that six months had already elapsed since the security had been furnished, and as the defendant was in Canton and had borrowed the sum of a thousand dollars to furnish the security he had been put to great inconvenience.

Mr. Max Schoon, on behalf of Messrs. Anderson, Meyer and Co., admitted that the charge of misappropriation was brought against the French gentleman. He could not see how they could settle as to which of the two gentleman was responsible for the serious defalcation. The company was quite prepared to pay the defendant's expenses from Canton to Shanghai and Tientsin. He expected the case would come up for hearing in Tientsin within the next month.

The Court adjourned the application for a month the security to be returned if the case does not come up before then.

U. S. Coal Supply Rapidly Dwindles

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 1.—The Chicago Tribune commenting on the fact that the miners' strike has already lasted several weeks without effecting the public, says that the present state of affairs cannot long continue for the consumption of coal is much greater than the production of the non-syndicated mines. Stocks are becoming exhausted and in two months factories will have to close down. The United States Government declares that it will not intervene in the dispute unless matters become serious.

each foot, a square mouth, a double-ridged nose, ears of great size, and a complexion of mixed white and yellow. Because his mother kept no Baby Book to record his weight, first precents, and early remarks, it was rumored that he was born an old man, with gray hair, and wrinkled brow. In fact the very name "Lao-tze," which means "old boy", was a posthumous name given him to commemorate his highly abnormal childhood.

It was rumored, too, that the sage of Tao solved the servant problem by placing a magic talisman in the mouth of his houseboy which made him proof against death. After having served his master for two hundred years without receiving one pay-envelope, the servant put in his bill for two centuries of back pay amounting to 75,000 ounces of silver. Lao-tze gave a glance to the bill, then told the claimant that there was really no hurry and that he would pay as soon as he returned from a little trip to India, Mongolia, and Arabia, for which he was about to depart on the back of his pet dragon. When the houseboy insisted, Lao-tze merely took the talisman from his mouth and the servant collapsed into a heap of dry bones. Then Lao-tze called up the morgue, said "Giddap" to the dragon, and eddied through the clouds in search of new adventures.

IMAGINATIVE TAOISTS

The more wildly extravagant phases of Lao-tze's history were not introduced into the record until the disappearance of his descendants. For five generations the followers of the mystical teacher kept track of his posterity; then in the confusion of the feudal wars the family was lost to view and there was nobody to contradict the colorful scenarios circulated by the Taoists. The members of Confucius' family, on the other hand, have been on record for seventy-seven generations. Two great stones carved with the family tree stand under the cedars in the temple of Chu'fu. This fact has also helped to save Confucius from the fate of Lao-tze, for descendants who eat, live, and sleep like ordinary mortals are a great man's insurance policy against those who would lessen the human application of his teachings by making him a god.

The diligence of those stenographic disciples may seem a bit hard on Confucius at times, but at least it is because of them that his teachings are uncorrupted and that we of today may know the master's true adventures in the feudal state of Lu and in the long-vanished Kingdom of Ch'i.

Mixed Court Again Takes Jurisdiction In Case Where Spanish Registry Is Claimed

American Assessor Supports Previous Ruling; Holds Denaturalisation Must Be Shown; Spanish Consul Issues Statement

The Mixed Court yesterday assumed jurisdiction in another case where a Chinese defendant claimed registration in the Spanish Consulate here.

The case came before American Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan and involves one Tsang Mai-hing, charged with embezzling Tls. 17,000 from the Tai Hang Yuen gold shop, of which he was formerly accountant. The claim of registration at the Spanish Consulate was put forward by Mr. L. K. Kentwell, for the defense, at a previous hearing and Mr. W. S. Fleming, representing the complainants, declared that the embezzlement occurred before the alleged registration was effected—during the fore part of last December.

Chief Inspector Wheeler of the Mixed Court stated that Mr. Kentwell had brought the claim of Spanish protection to his attention and a letter had been received from the Spanish Consul by the Registrar to the effect that the defendant was registered at that Consulate and any action brought against him should be filed in the Consular court. Since the question of registration had been raised it was left to the Court to decide whether they should proceed with the hearing.

BACKS BLACKBURN RULING

"We take the same attitude which the Court took on Friday and Saturday, pending a statement from the Ministry of Interior regarding denationalisation," said Assessor Tenney. "Until the accused produces a certificate of denaturalisation, we shall take jurisdiction."

Mr. Kentwell stated that as the Court had decided to take jurisdiction he would mention that his client had made certain admissions regarding the embezzlement and he asked a week's remand to see how much of the admission might be true and how much out of the Tls. 17,000 had been embezzled.

Mr. Fleming did not oppose the remand and it was granted. Accused admitted to the Court that he had no denationalisation papers from the Ministry.

SPANISH CONSUL REPLIES

In connection with the ruling of Assessor Blackburn and the Magistrate last week, scoring the practise of Chinese registration at foreign Consulates to escape jurisdiction and taking jurisdiction in a case wherein the defendent claimed Spanish protection, the Spanish Consul-General, Mr. Luis Rubio Amoedo, has made the following statement:

"It is indeed bitter for me to have to occupy myself with matters of this nature. Not only for the time we are losing but as well for the time we would lose if all functionaries were unacquainted with matters they come in daily contact with if they had the presumption to invade spheres from which they are so far off.

"My observations and protests on such a conduct have been sent to the Senior Consul, and you will, doubtless, find it justified that I shall reserve my conclusions for the moment, until my colleagues examine the document addressed them by me. What I can say is that not long ago Mr. Blackburn, the British Assessor, permitted himself to show a similar tendency, when, in a likewise form to the one now employed by me, I said:

"'I do not much care that that Assessor ignores the meaning and ends of our protection nor the rights which the Foreign Representatives have according to their Treaties, nor even if he ignores the purposes of these treaties, what I do care and want from him is the respect Foreign Consulates deserve and that when he has anything to do with them to know how to keep his proper place.'

"The British Assessor rectified then and apologised in open session of the Mixed Court and by official communication sent by the Senior Consul to me; but apparently Mr. Blackburn has already forgotten it and has again incurred in something which I do not want now to qualify.

"It is indeed very strange that Mr. Blackburn is trying to annul and make void—by personal authority—what treaties dispose between China and other nations.

"It is likewise astonishing to see a man devoted to explain the law stating that a man is tied up to the country wherein he is born for all his life, and that he has not the right to emancipate himself—as he can do if he likes from his family—without the consent of the Government.

"Neither the treaties are made giving the contracting Governments the right to interfere in each case to what has been mutually agreed and accorded nor the free countries of the world could understand the theory advanced by Mr. Blackburn. If a naturalised citizen of the United States, after having been naturalised, were called by the tribunal of his country each and every time a creditor of his demanded certain payments of a debt contracted as an American citizen, North America, as well as all the lawyers of the world, would get scandalised before such a pretension.

"To suppose that those that try to elude justice do so harboring themselves under the protection of the foreign Consulates, it is, indeed, very difficult for me to reply within the terms which proper correction imposes on me. It is, nevertheless, a fact that those which state such a thing have little sense or a moral different to the moral we all know, if they believe that Consular Tribunals leave trasgressions or crimes exempt from punishment, or that they are less dignified or fitted than the Mixed Court. In my own Consulate, not long ago, I have imprisoned proteges for faults which other tribunals do not consider as such. What I did not do and never will do is to exact cautions or to imprison a man because he is accused, until and after his fault or offense has been demostrated with proofs.

"The comparison of nationalities with old clothes, of course, does not deserve to be taken into consideration, it being neither fortunate nor brilliant.

"It is uncertain that the flag under which a man protects himself will ever consent to this man being tried by the country he renounced, and it is indeed strange that an Assessor has not knowledge or forgets that his own nation, or any other nation, administers justice as well as all other official and public matters to her subjects as well as to those that accept her laws.

"It is clear that nobody will ever exact to naturalise a person the consent of the Government this person voluntarily renounces, as it would amount to deny that man is free to emancipate himself of his country, as he does, or has the right to do, from his parents after he is of age. The contrary would amount to wrest the liberty America and Europe recognise to man.

"The Mixed Court has suspended the hearing of this case untill the decision of the Consular Body."

JAPAN ASKS TO BE INCLUDED IN GENOA RULINGS

Draft Of Note To Russians Has Been Completed

(Reuter's Service)

Genoa, May 2.—Japan has asked to be included in the scope of the Economic Commission's resolutions and to be allowed to participate in the economic reconstruction of the world.

The draft of the clauses of the Note to the Russians has been completed and will be presented this afternoon to a mixed arbitral commission, presided over by a nominee of the President of the United States Supreme Court, which will adjudicate all matters relating to foreign bondholders and compensation for private property in the event of the failure of a direct agreement.

Genoa, May 1.—A new figure standing out in conference circles is the Reverend Father Luigi Sturzo, who leads the Italian Catholic Party and who advocates a European federation based on principles of brotherly love, conciliation and co-operation. Father Sturzo has no official standing in the Conference but his views are receiving the attention of the leaders of the various delegations. Father Sturzo plans to visit the United States to spread his ideas.

Editor's note—The reference in the above Reuter despatch to "a nominee of the President of the United States Supreme Court" is puzzling. There is no president of the United States Supreme court, the head of that body being the Chief Justice. The refusal of the United States government to participate in the Genoa Conference, even to the extent of having "observers" present is hardly compatible with such an announcement as carried in this despatch. The United States Supreme court could not act in such a capacity without authority from Congress. The Reuter despatch, insofar as it refers to this nominee, probably was confused in transmission.

Bryan Wants U. S. To Send Envoys To Genoa Parley

(China Press Service)

Lincoln, Neb., May 1.—W. J. Bryan has written an open letter to Harding urging that a representative commission from the United States be sent to Genoa, not necessarily to bind the country to the conclusions of the conference, but to advise with the nations of Europe in an effort to bring about the rehabilitation of the world. Bryan wrote:

"It is a national and international calamity that the United States did not enter the League of Nations, the responsibility for which rested about equally upon Republicans and Democrats." Failure to participate at Genoa was another calamity, Mr. Bryan declared.

Genoa, May 1.—Tchitcherin has presented a note to Facta as president of the conference expressing the Russian dissatisfaction over the delay in replying to the Russian note of April 20. He declares the note will be withdrawn and Russia will resume her original position unless she is assured that her credits will be restored.

PETER GIBELLO WINS FIGHT OVER POST AT HARBIN

Cable Says He Is Returning As Italian Consul To Northern Center

Messages from Rome reported as having been received recently by the Italian Legation have brought an end to the long standing controversy between the Gibello brothers over the Italian Consular post at Harbin.

As an outcome of inquiries set on foot by the Rome government it is announced that Mr. Peter Gibello, formerly a prominent commercial figure in Manchuria, is to resume the post of Italian Consul at Harbin from which he was ousted nearly a year ago by his own brother, Major Joseph Gibello.

In addition to the messages to the Legation a cable has been received here from Mr. Peter Gibello saying that questions concerning the Harbin post have been adjusted and that he is returning to China again to become Italian Consul at Harbin.

Lenin's Illness Due To Extraction Of Socialist Bullet

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 1.—The mystery regarding Lenin's illness has been cleared up by a statement signed by the German surgeon, Dr. Borchardt, and other physicians saying that the bullet had been in Lenin's shoulder since his attempted assassination by Social Revolutionaries in 1918.

It was extracted by an operation on April 23 and the stitches were removed on April 27. The wound is in good condition with no unhealthy symptons and the patient is feeling well.

The first floor of the machine shop was gutted and those of the other two shops badly damaged.

Mrs. Ayscough Lectures On Chinese Poetry Before American Woman's Club

At the meeting of the American Woman's Club held yesterday afternoon at the Carlton Cafe Mrs. Florence Ayscough spoke on "Chinese Poetry", illustrating her remarks by reading several poems from "Fir Flower Tablets", translated from the Chinese by Mrs. Ayscough and put into metrical form by Miss Amy Lowell.

In introduction Mrs. Ayscough quoted from an appreciation of Miss Lowell's work by Norreys Jephson O'Connor which appeared recently in the "Landmark," in which she maintained that "the revival of interest in poetry, which began in the United States a few years before the recent war, has been sustained and increased largely through the personality and zeal of a New England poet and critic, Amy Lowell. Her enthusiasm and courage in upholding her artistic beliefs have done much to win respect for the profession of poetry and her influence upon individual poets, even upon those who never adopted the innovations in form which she has made familiar has been noteworthy."

PASSION FOR ACCURACY

In referring to Miss Lowell's remarkable tenacity of purpose and passion for accurate reproduction of the idea of the Chinese original Mrs. Ayscough described the lengthy discussions lasting from four in the afternoon till two o'clock in the morning which she and Miss Lowell would hold over the precise shade of emotion to be phrased. Nor was this all, for after Mrs. Ayscough left Brockline for New Brunswick, the telephone bell would often break into her midnight slumbers and Miss Lowell, who does all her literary work at night, would inquire over the long distance line, "Is there a diaeresis over the u in Yu?" or query some other technical point which would involve much consulting of manuscripts before the collaborators could be satisfied as to the perfect accuracy of the proof.

RICH IN CONNOTATION

In speaking of the richness of connotation found in Chinese poetry Mrs. Ayscough spoke of the associations which the mention not only of certain actual provinces and places but of the mythological districts of the "Western Paradise" invariably aroused in the mind of author and reader, such as the Jade Pass standing for homesickness. Subjects range over a varied field, descriptions of scenery, songs of friendship, of lonely wives, of battle and the wine cup. There are practically no love songs written by men to women but many from women to men, especially from wives pining for their absent husbands. Mrs. Ayscough characterised some of the short poems as being like great houses, hidden in trees which hide them from the passerby, in that their full meaning eludes the careless reader.

READS CHARMING POEM

One of the many charming poems so sympathetically read by Mrs. Ayscough described the plight of the Lady Chao' Chun, sent by her father as his most prized possession to the court of the Emperor. Because of her failure to bribe the official portrait-painter her likeness was caricatured and she was never called into the presence of the Emperor until she was about to be bestowed upon the Khan of Central Asia as his bride. All too late the emperor realised the surpassing loveliness of the jewel he was losing, but nothing could be done and the lady carried away a breaking heart, only eclaced by her suicide after the death of the Khan. Mrs. Ayscough closed with Tu Fu's poem "The Thatched House Unroofed by Autumn Gales" in which the empoverished poet longs to house all the starving scholars of the world in a beautiful building where they would suffer no want.

MEETING NEXT TUESDAY

The next general meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday, May 16 at 4 at the Carlton Café and at this time reports will be made by the chairmen of the different departments and committees. This will be the last formal meeting for the year, but the Social Department announces a Garden fete for May 27, the exact time and place to be announced later.

The Literary Department will meet on Friday, May 12 at the rooms of the Royal Asiatic Society. Mrs. J. J. Brenneman will speak on "Shi Whangti, the Napoleon of China" and Mrs. H. E. Davis on "The Early Poetry of China.

The Mothers' Department will meet this morning at ten o'clock at the Carlton Cafe, when a paper will be read by Mrs. L. J. Birney on "Practical Religious Training for Children".

The Social Service Department will meet at 4:30 Friday, May 5 at the School for the Blind, where the boys of the school will give a program. Delegates from the National Christian Conferences are especially invited to attend.

Union Theological Seminary Alumni To Hold Reunion Today

Alumni and ex-students of Union Theological Seminary of New York will gather at the Union Club at 12:30 o'clock today for a reunion tiffin.

It is estimated that there are at least thirty alumni and former students of the Seminary in Shanghai at the present time as delegates to the National Christian Conference and it is hoped that all will be in attendance.

Old Bill, The Hawk And Maresfield Are Favorites For The Champions Today

Shanghai's Great Classic To Be Run As Ninth Race This Afternoon

Today the racing classic of the half-year, main event of Spring Meeting—The Champions Sweepstake—will be run. The race is the ninth on today's program and is will start at 4 o'clock this afternoon or a little later. At about 3:30 o'clock, just before the eighth race is run, the numbers in the Champions Sweepstake will be drawn and posted. There was little doubt last night that the full limit of 50,000 tickets on this race will be issued, perhaps before 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Opinion expressed at the selling lotteries on ponies in The Champions at the Race Club last night placed Old Bill, The Hawk and Maresfield as almost even choice favorites in the race. Two lotteries on the race were held. In the first The Hawk was accorded the choice of favorite by a scant margin over Old Bill and bidding on Maresfield was just below that on Old Bill.

In the second lottery Old Bill went into first place favorite by a measurable lead over The Hawk and this second lottery served to make Maresfield third choice favorite.

RIDERS ON FAVORITES

It is probable that not less than fifteen starters will appear for the big contest and besides the three ponies named considerable support is being accorded to Shenkoland, Christmas Gift and Castle Sycee. Mr. M. O. Springfield will ride Old Bill today, having already achieved two victories, one on the first day and one yesterday. Mr. William Hill, who piloted The Hawk into first place in the Champions last fall when Maresfield and Old Bill finished second and third, will again ride the pony today. It is understood that Mr. A. J. Heard who won the Cathay Cup on Maresfield on Monday, will be the pony's rider today.

In the past two days of racing the possible number of entries for The Champions has been reduced by two, as Old Bill has won twice—The Criterion Stakes on Monday and yesterday's mile and a half event. The Chinese Cup and the Shanghai Stakes—and Christmas Gift with Mr. Heard riding also has won two races—The Hart Legacy Cup on Monday and The Tientsin Plate yesterday. It is possible that the number of Champions entries may be lowered further today in the eight events that precede the big race.

After the sullen wet weather of Monday and some indication of more rain yesterday morning the skies cleared and the sun came out in the afternoon giving promise of the best of racing weather for today's program. Granted continued clear weather the course will be in excellent shape.

THE HAWK QUALIFIES

Mr. Hill qualified The Hawk for the Champions in yesterday's opening event, the Chu-Ka-Za Cup, over a distance of three-quarters of a mile. The Hawk, which on Monday finished the mile and a quarter distance of The Cathay cup behind Maresfield and Nationalist, won yesterday's first race without particular effort, though it finished in this race only a length ahead of Pennyfield, ridden by Mr. Heard. The time in this race 1:30 2-5 may not be considered as more than fair.

The long hard contest over two miles, The Race Club Cup, second race on yesterday's program, was won in a wonderful spurt in the last few yards by Letchfield with Mr. Heard riding. Nationalist, ridden by Mr. Knoll finished second just a head behind. Crowborough with Springfield riding took third place.

In one particular the big race of the day, The Shanghai Derby which was run in the noon hour as third event, was disappointing, as only nine starters appeared.

THE DERBY

As the track had been made heavy by the rain of the preceding day and a north wind against the ponies in the home stretch also was a factor, the time of the race was far below records of Derbies of other years, but it proved to be a contest full of interest from the start.

Hilo, ridden by Mr. Springfield, and Oregon, ridden by Mr. Sleap, went out a length or two ahead of the field which was closely packed with Indiana, ridden by Mr. Knoll, and Colorado with Mr. Vida up bringing up the rear. All through the back stretch and into the last turn the ponies held to this formation. It was then that the bunched field began to overtake the leaders and in the stretch Christmas Card, with Mr. Heard up and Indiana and Colorado pushed out into a hard fought three-cornerd contest which was won by Christmas Card. Indiana and Colorado finished in order. The time was 3:16 2-5.

Most of the afternoon races were more or less featureless and, save perhaps the last two races of the day, a bit disappointing by reason of the small number of starters in most of them. In the Siccawei Cup, the fifth race, a mile and a quarter only three starters went out. It was this event in which Shenkoland, with Mr. A. N. Dallas riding, qualified for The Champions winning from Tyneside with Mr. Brand riding and Pilgrim with Mr. Harper up.

Two dividend payments of the day went over the hundred-dollar mark. One of $118.30 was paid on Christmas Card when that pony upset expectations in The Derby and the other of $102 was on Beeswing which Mr. Knoll rode to victory over the favorites in the last race. With the exception of three payments near the fifty-dollar mark dividends held to low levels.

Mr. Heard took premier place among the riders, scoring place in four of the eleven races and three of these he won. Mr. Knoll took first twice, and took second five times. Mr. A. N. Dallas took two firsts and two third places.

Curlew XI Takes Honors In Both Hongkong Leagues

Hongkong, April 24.—The Hongkong Football League season was brought to a successful close on Saturday afternoon, when H.M.S. "Curlew" won the championship of both divisions, a very creditable performance when the formidable combinations they had to encounter are remembered. It was a very narrow thing for them in both matches on Saturday, victory in each case depending on the only goal scored.

Baseball Fans Looking Forward To Game With Nanking On Saturday, 13th

Games With School, Navy Will Fill In Mid-Week Dates; Practice Tomorrow

With the spring race meet blocking further practice until tomorrow, and but small prospect for games for the big local baseball squad until Thursday or Friday, and then only with the second or Red nine of the team of American School, baseball for the present has fallen into a bad way.

It is hoped even yet that a game way be booked with the School boys for Thursday or Friday for the mid-week, with another good game for the next Wednesday either with the School or the U.S.S. Buffalo, and its 16 attendant torpedo boat destroyers. The two games are looked forward to as the final trials for the real baseball season.

The opening date of the year looked forward to now is the match with the team from the language school from Nanking, scheduled for Saturday May 13. The match will be the first of importance after the erection of the stands and the real opening of the local baseball season.

Not much is known about the Nanking nine, but then there is not much known about the Shanghai team. A number of candidates are available here, but little opportunity has as yet been given to try them out. Nanking is rated as a strong baseball aggregation and is certain to put a good lineup in the field against the local team.

Local old timers however, including Scott, Dennison, Bristowe, Griffith, Hopkins, Holliday, C. J. Smith, Bills, Maloney, Ladd, S. F. Smith, et al, together with the long list of newcomers out for the 1922 nine are confident of holding their own against the Nanking invasion. In spite of the fine playing qualities of the northern team, the Shanghai men are prepared for them.

For the big game with Nanking a membership ticket will be required for admission. The game is looked forward to by the local secretary and manager as the beginning of the big drive for memberships.

The 655 membership of last year is expected to be passed with the opening grand-stand game on May 13, and the thousand mark will be reached or exceeded with the first or second game thereafter.

Shanghai takes the field again tomorrow and Friday at 5 o'clock, and on Sunday at 3. On Monday and Tuesday the five o'clock commander time prevails. The Stands will be up by then and it is possible that a midweek game may be staged either with the American School or with a navy team which is looked for here within the next week or so.

The memorial, which is in the form of a mural tablet in the entrance hall of the school, will be unveiled by Mr. C. F. Garstin, British Acting Consul-General. Nanking U. Honors Forensic Heroes

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, May 1.—The victory over Shanghai Baptist College by the University of Nanking in the final annual intercollegiate debate of the East China Intercollegiate English Debating Association held last Friday night, the twenty-eight, at the Chinese Y. M. C. A. was celebrated with unusual enthusiam this morning in the Sage Chapel of the University of Nanking.

The proposition debated was: "Resolved that the family of China should be so modified that marriage would general lead to the furnishing of a new home for the wedded pair." Nanking upheld the negative side and the team was represented by Messrs. Wei Hsioh-ren, Li Kwei-chen and Chang Chi-wen, the same trio who downed St. John's University debators last December at Jessfield.

The celebration was conducted under the auspices of the arts committee of the students self-government, of which Mr. Feng Pang-wen is the chairman, and presided over the meeting. He gave humorus and fitting introductory remarks. Speeches paying tribute to the winning debators were given by Messrs. Li Fu-ling, Wu San Shen Hsioh-chi and Professor K. S. Sie, representing respectively the higher primary, middle school colleges, and the alumni of the University. Dr. C. H. Hamilton, chairman of the extra-curriculum committee, also spoke. He played a piano solo which was appreciated by the whole audience. Professor C. Wade-Jones and Mr. Li Ching-siang who were with the debators reported the debate.

"YOU NEVER CAN TELL"
A VERY DELIGHTFUL STORY OF THE DAINTIEST, SAUCIEST, MOST PIQUANT GOOD-LITTLE-BAD GIRL.
From the Saturday Evening Post Story of the Same Name
What is Fifty Dollars to You?
In the fashionable hotel where Rowena worked as a checkroom girl, she saw people pay fifty dollars for one little dinner party. All about her was luxury, and she was sick and tired of being poor and shabby. So she decided to get into the game herself.
Borrowed finery, stolen pleasures, innocent pretense, serious fibbing—soon she had herself involved in all sorts of an embarrassing situation.
All might not have ended well had not her Prince Charming happened along at the critical moment.

This Solon Would Punish Hypocrites

(China Press Service)

New York, May 1.—A member of the New York State Legislature has recently introduced a bill which provides that hypocrisy shall be considered a misdemeano and punishable as such. Whether he is in earnest may be a matter of opinion.

It is only clear that his action is aimed at those professional reformers, of which there seem to be many in the United States, who are continuing the effort to make the world good by law.

SIR JOHN JORDAN PRAISES JAPAN'S STAND ON OPIUM

Swiss Strongly Criticised For Cocaine Exports

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 2.—Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, the Chinese representative on the Opium Commission of the League of Nations, has returned to London from Genoa.

London, May 2.—Fuller mail reports of the League of Nations Opium Commission at Geneva show that Sir John Jordan congratulated Japan on her frankness and honesty in the figures of morphine imports which she had given to the Commission. He asked what happened to over 48,000 pounds of morphine imported into Japan in 1920, in addition to 7,883 pounds manufactured in Japan and 8,018 pounds produced in Formosa.

The Japanese representative frankly declared that much undoubtedly had been illicitly smuggled into China but said that new and very thorough legislation followed by strict administrative action was being enforced in Japan and that diminution and complete control of the traffic were being attempted by Japan in an honest effort to do her duty as a signatory of the Hague Convention.

Sir John Jordan declared that morphine captured in China bore labels from London, America and Japan and that the Comission recognised that America and Britain had also sinned against China by exporting morphine, which was transhipped at Kobe, outside the Japanese Customs, and smuggled into China but that new legislation in Great Britain and the United States fitting into this Japanese system must rapidly reduce supplies.

Strong criticism was expressed against Switzerland both in standing outside the Commision and in being the largest exporter of cocaine in the world, exporting over 3,000 pounds in 1920, in addition to 4,963 pounds of morphine to Japan.

Accused Peking Official Acquitted

Peking, April 24.—It is reported that Chang Hu has successfully answered the charges made against him by the Citizens' Finance Association. The acquittal is said to come as a result of the inquiry recently held in the Japanese hospital last week. The Minister of Finance is said to have answered fully and to have proved that there was lack of evidence against him on these specific counts.

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ½d. in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 68½, and the London-New York cross rate to 443. Our official quotations here today were unchanged from yesterday, and business was done at about yesterday's level. The market, while quite steady, was not perhaps so firm as yesterday.

At the opening, business in Sterling was done at 3-5⅝ for May and 3-5⅝ for June. However, there were good buyers at these rates, and, at the close, the best sellers were offering only 3-5½ for May and 3-5 7-16 for June.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 76⅝ for May and 76½ for June, with buyers at about 1-8 above these quotations.

There were again a few Franc bills in the market today, and owing to the improvement in the cross rate, there were good buyers of Franc T-T at 837½, and of bills at 860.

India and China bought silver in London yesterday, and the market there, as well as in New York, is reported as firm.

Japanese Deny Shantung "Joker"

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, April 24 (delayed).—Advices cabled to Japan from Washington state that stories of the "joker" in the Shantung return agreement whereby Japan can raise the total bill to over one million dollars silver are absurd. They state that the agreement provides that China shall be a party to the return negotiations and therefore need not agree to any payments she does not consider fair.

On the other hand these charges as pointed out in the recent investigations of the Chung Mei are legitimate charges and were provided for in the treaty. The main problem is to find an equitable basis for making the transfer so that the prices will be fair and China will be granted every facility in the matter of payments.

This stand is endorsed by many Japanese of prominence and is upheld by the Japanese press in many of their comments in opposition to those who would make the bill as high as possible.

Freedom Of Speech And The N. C. C.

BY HUGH W. WHITE

HAD hoped to say nothing further on this subject, but numerous requests are received that I reply to Mr. Lobenstine's article of the 29th.

The report of Commission III, which is at last to hand, confirms my view that the heart of the Chinese church is loyal to Christian principles. The message that they give has a true ring. But it is noticeable that Mr. Lobenstine, who was present at the committee meeting to which I referred, does not attempt to deny my statement that for four hours the efforts to put into that message an unquestionable statement of Christ's redemptive work were fought down, and that it was for this reason the responsibility was thrown on the Chinese.

On reading the message one feels like immediately accepting it as satisfactory. But then we remember the favorite method of those, mis-called Modernists or Radicals, to use evangelical terms with a mental reservation. We would like to ask, when one of the writers urges that the Bible be taught in the schools, saying that all of it is inspired, whether he would say the same of Shakespeare or Confucius.

In the meeting of the Presbyterian, London Mission, and Congregational churches just ended, I made the remark that the doctrinal statement proposed, having in the English the word "Redeemer" taught the doctrine of the atonement. To my amazement, two missionaries challenged me, one of them saying on the floor that redemption did not mean atonement except as I interpreted it so. They voted for the doctrinal statement with this understanding.

If the statement were disingenuous, there would be no objection to queries on the floor as to its meaning, but we hear that no discussion is to be allowed except on Commission V.

Mr. Lobenstine frankly admits my statement that the business committee are to control what comes before the assembly. He forgets to mention the two-thirds majority required, nor does he say how many of that committee are Continuation Committee men. And that those wishing to speak should send in their cards is, as he says, a matter of course, but the twenty four hour notice required also escapes his attention.

Union of Christians is a matter dear to all hearts, and few would object, were it not that a small group of men are engineering the matter. For years they have led the Continuation Committee. The same men are prominent in the Kuling Convention, the Community church, the magazines, the Tract Societies, the American School, etc., etc. By interlocking directorates they influence most forms of missionary work. All respect them, of course, as consecrated Christian gentlemen, but their principle is: Destructive criticism must not be touched. Men may write books which take away from multitudes their saving faith in the Bible, they may teach in the schools and theological seminaries books which disseminate rank infidelity, but not one word must be said against them at the peril of popularity.

Many favor co-operation in the Council to be established. But we heretics who would reserve our right to criticise the critics, and stand for the integrity of the Word, will do well to keep our freedom. It would be easier to be an Erasmus but maybe necessary to be a Luther, a Knox—a Savonarola.

Some think it would be safe to unite, provided that a settlement of doctrine can be adopted. It might be so, if the statement were worded unmistakably. But to avoid giving offense words will certainly be used with double meaning. Furthermore the Mission to which I belong in 1911 stood seventeen to two against giving up the then doctrinal basis of Nanking Seminary. We only gave consent when there was put in the constitution a statement, clearly affirming faith in the Bible, in the deity of the Son, in the atonement, and a requirement that each professor must subscribe to this statement. Yet now we find this seminary using as text-book Clarke's Theology, which teaches that the incarnation was a revelation of God in man, which denies the atonement, makes all Christians liable to judgment according to works, denies the resurrection of the Lord and of believers, denies the final judgment—all directly contrary to the constitution. Nobody said a word against it until a pariah came along who does not fear what people may say about him.

Union? Most certainly with all whose aim is to strengthen faith in the Word of God. As to those whose minds and consciences lead them otherwise, we may give the hand of fellowship, welcome them as co-workers for the uplift of China, but if wise we will not tie ourselves up. A distinction should be made between union and compromising co-operation.

Will the editor kindly sign my full name this time.

Abstract Altruism

BY S. E. KISER

I'm thinking, being poor at present,
Of all I'd do if I had wealth
To help to make the world more pleasant
For people who lack luck or health;
I think I'd find much joy in giving
A boost to some one, here or there,
Who found it hard to make a living
And had too great a load to bear.

I think I'd look in dismal places
For chances to be giving cheer,
For bringing smiles to tearful faces,
And making darkened pathways clear.
I'd find the gray bookkeepers who
Have drudged for years in gloomy nooks
And give them something else to do
More lucrative than keeping books.

If I had millions well invested
I think I'd find it loads of fun
To hunt out pale and hollow-chested
Old clerks and help them, one by one.
I think if I were rich I'd hurry
In search of cripples who were sad
And show them how to cease to worry
And give them cause for being glad.

I think that slyly, here and there,
I'd help some worthy boy to rise;
Where children needed light and air
I'd be their doctor, in disguise.
I'd find good sport in ample measure
By helping those whose backs were bent,
And, now and then, I'd have sweet pleasure
In paying some poor widow's rent.

I, being always on the brink
From which the weak and luckless fall,
Consider such good deeds, and think
That if I could I'd do them all:
But, doubtless, if I had a lot
Of money that I didn't need
I'd want still more and give no thought
To those who feel the sting of Greed.

Sir Philip Gibbs Describes Canada From Observation Car

BY SIR PHILIP GIBBS

For some days I have been in Canada and am now writing this article in an observation car of the National Railway on the way from Winnipeg to Edmonton. Although I have had the advantage of discussing Canadian problems and prospects with some leading men of the West, and recently was able to get a glimpse of eastern conditions and thought in the city of Toronto, I think the scene from this window tells me more what Canada means than any kind of conversation with statesmen or citizens.

For hundreds of miles—for more than a thousand miles—railroad tracks have gone through great prairies, stretching away interminably, it seems, to the far horizon, so flat that there is no sign of a hillock, with hardly a billow of earth except where snow has drifted; an immense, white, winter-bound, lonely land, here and there small townships and villages, widely scattered, here and there a solitary log hut, with a few wooden shanties around, and some snow-covered hay ricks. Little woods, black above the snow, are dotted thickly over the white wilderness; black cattle stand near a cluster of sheds.

GREAT GRANARY OF WORLD

This country is one of the great granaries of the world. In a little while snows will melt and out of the rich, far-reaching north will spring green crops, which then in due time will turn into golden glory ready for harvesting.

But what strikes me with a kind of constant wonder are the unpopulated spaciousness of this Canadian world, and the loneliness, the moral courage and hard life of the individual who has come out here and built one of those solitary homesteads and made the land fruitful in the great adventure with life and death. For two years or more luck has been against him. The Canadian farmer is waiting now through this long winter, nearly ending, with desperate hope that the wheel of fortune will turn at least a spoke or two; otherwise, he will be on the edge of calamity. Drought, low prices for his produce, high prices for labor and machinery, freight charges that swallow his profits, failing markets, high tariffs against him in the United States, embargo against his cattle in Great Britain, have tested the staying power of the strongest among them. The weakest have already broken, I am told.

Canada, about the size of the United States, has a population of nine millions. During the last ten years it has shown an increase of two millions, yet it could absorb twenty millions of new settlers within the next year or two and not notice them with any sense of overcrowding.

ENGLAND'S JOBLESS

Looking out over these prairies, waiting for manhood and womanhood, with infinite capacity for absorption of life, I think back to England, with its million and a half of unemployed, and to the United States with its teeming cities, and to Central Europe and Russia with so many millions of underfed folk. This great world of Canada would find room for vast numbers of fellows who cannot find good jobs or enough food for their women folk. But one glance at this white landscape in winter time tells me that Canada is not the country for city bred folk, for the weakling in soul or body. One winter in one of those lonely, snowbound homesteads would kill off the unfit, drive mad his sensitive, crowd accustomed mind. Only good stock of old pioneer kind, used to the land, hard and patient and brave, could survive in this Canadian West.

After war, when great numbers of returned soldiers were tired of lounging about cities and found their pockets empty, the government established a settlement scheme which has now stood its test. As far as I can find out, it has been a success in those cases of men who have grit and endurance, in spite of bad luck with weather—and in some cases bad land which did not give them a decent chance.

WHERE SCHEME HAS FAILED

It has failed in every case where the returned soldier was not accustomed to the harsh life of the soil or to the rigor of the Canadian climate. One of the leaders of Canadian life in Winnipeg, admitting there was no pretending that a Canadian winter is not severe and long, said: "We had far better face the fact and make the best of it. Let us capitalise our climate and make winters more endurable by sports and games."

That idea of capitalising climate was the motive behind the great winter carnival at Winnipeg, which was in full swing the night I arrived, and certainly the procession of the Queen of Beauty with her immense train of torch bearers and battalions of Canadian boys and girls in fancy dress, of redskins and trappers with snowshoes and skis, was proof to the crowd that ice and snow need not lower the temperature of mirth and jollity. Hour after hour through the streets of Winnipeg, all brilliantly lit, as though the skies had been brought down and festooned between houses, the procession wound its way, and laughter and song rang out through the frosty air.

But what is possible in Winnipeg is impossible in the little lonely places of the great prairies, where Canadian families, utterly isolated, hug close to the log fire and wait now for the first warm breath of coming spring which will release them from white bondage.

They have their compensations, if they are not fretful for the nervous pleasures of towns, if there is love in the house and food enough, and fuel for fire, and hardihood of youth. In such life there is peace of soul not found in brick streets of modern cities. Out of such life comes the greatness of a nation and its best wealth.

The promise of Canada is immeasurable, unless cities with their lure destroy its chances. That Canada will be one of the greatest nations on earth seems certain, if humanity has not lost its pioneering spirit. At the moment Canadian people are suffering from deep depression, due partly to general stagnation of world trade and partly, perhaps, to avoidable political and economic mistakes. One thing that has hit Canadian farmers is the Fordney tariff imposed by the United States upon their cattle and grain. It seems to be the belief of Western Canada—just or unjust, I do not know—that their interest has been sacrificed by self-interest of cities like Toronto and Montreal and by short-sightedness of politicians who refused reciprocal agreement with the United States in 1911 on a free trade basis.

The Canadian farmers want agricultural machines, cheap manures and fodder and an open market with the United States. Above all they demand drastic reduction in freight charges, made high by a railway policy which overdeveloped the railways of Canada and put an immense burden on the government through their own lack of foresight and passion for prodigal enterprise beyond the nation's means.

TARIFF BARRIERS DEPLORED

It seems deplorable at this time of world distress that the United States and Canada should be putting up tariffs against each other instead of devising some scientific arrangement that would create the rising tide of trade in both countries.

With regard to Great Britain, I find an abiding love for the "old country" in the heart of Canada and immense pride in the spirit and traditions of the British Empire. But Canada is undoubtedly sensitive and jealous of her dominion status as a nation, equal and independent within the federation of British peoples. The dominion status has not been clearly defined, though in actual practice Canada is certain of her equality and has equal voice with Great Britain and the other dominions in counsels of the empire.

I find Canadian people a little resentful of criticism in the United States during the controversy over the League of Nations, because they would not admit the right of Canada to vote as a nation. But on all sides and from all people to whom I have spoken I hear the conviction that the deepest unchanging instinct and tradition of Canada is first of all allegiance to the British Empire in free and equal partnership, and second, friendship and co-operation in world progress with the United States. This understanding between English-speaking peoples has become, I believe, closer and more intimate during the Washington conference, and should have great influence in reshaping world affairs.

Today -:- By Arthur Brisbane

The ship Mt. Clinton arrives from Hamburg, bringing birds and monkeys. One little paroquet of the "Love Bird" family died. Its mate almost immediately died of grief. That doesn't happen to monkeys or their alleged descendant—man. The monkeys come for scientific experiment, their lives will be sacrificed to science, and the tender-hearted will wail about that—as they should.

But what is the real difference between those monkeys and us humans? Scientific experiments on the monkeys and their troubles are over in a few days, or weeks. Fate and civilisation's experiments on us last three score and ten years, and also end in death. If a monkey could lead the average man's life for awhile he would say: "Take me to the Rockefeller Institute and get done with it."

The marine borer which attacks wood under water does damage amounting to billions. In two years it has caused twenty millions of damage in San Francisco Bay alone. If you can invent a method for circumventing that borer, you will have wealth beyond the dreams of Rothschild.

Creosoting is not sufficient protection. The thinnest covering of copper would protect perfectly. Copper is cheap. What about applying thin copper plating to timbers well planed? Is that possible?

The Anaconda Copper Company, wisely pushing the manufacture of copper roofing, might answer the question.

An efficiency expert says that girls employed by the Government waste every year six million dollars' worth of Uncle Sam's time making themselves prettier, during working hours, with curling irons, face powder, lip stick, etc.

But what is the final result? What the statistician calls "dolling up" leads to marriage, for the American youth is a foolish creature, won by appearances. The marriages lead to the production of useful young citizens, worth more to Uncle Sam than the six million dollars a year involved.

The City of Frankfort will name a principal street for Jacob H. Schiff, born there. The Jewish Telegraphic Agency says the Schiffs, with a longer recorded lineage than any other living Jewish family, have lived in Frankfort since the fourteenth century.

That takes them back near the time when the original Hohenzollern was thriving as a money-lender in East Prussia, a small unimportant noble nobody.

Look at the Hohenzollerns now, crushed and down, and the Schiffs still going strong, with money in the bank. This ought to teach some German Junkers to revise their views of Jewish inferiority.

Simplest facts about the universe are too big for our brains. A hoptoad by the railroad track can comprehend the express train as well as we comprehend the universe spread out before us. For instance, Sir Oliver Lodge, whose book on "The Imponderable Ether" you should read, continues his studies and makes this announcement.

Ether fills all space. The Lord only knows how big that is. If you went as fast as lightning, which goes 186,000 miles every second, you and your descendants, fifty thousand years from now, might still be traveling in a straight line, space and ether would be all around you.

For millions of years the ether has been storing up energy. Today a cubic millimeter of the ether, smaller than the little piece of lead at the end of your lead pencil, contains as much power, "as a million-kilowatt power station would produce working continuously for several million years."

In other words, if you could release the power locked up in the ether that fills the corner of your eye, you could run all the machinery on earth for an indefinite period.

Many And Varied Are The Uses Of Zinc

As the United States is first among the countries of the world in the production of metals, New York City is the greatest market in the country for their sale. To the ordinary observer there must be something confusing in the description and classifications which accompany the quotations for antimony, nickel, quicksilver, aluminium, tin and plainum. This does not apply to the "metal five," so-called, gold silver, copper, lead and zinc.

In the mining industry, those five metals are so closely related that some of their ores contain all of them, many contain three or four and very few contain only one. Gold and silver have a close relation, and their ores are usually mined together. Lead and zinc constitute a similar "pair." Copper ores almost invariably yield some silver and some gold as well as some copper, and most lead ores yield considerable supplies of silver. Zinc ores, too, contribute to the production of silver. All five metals may occur in commercial quantity in a single mine or, more commonly, in a single mining district.

Of the stories of gold, as of the making of books, there is no end. With the uses of silver, copper and lead every newspaper reader is familiar, but with those of zinc now being constantly enlarged, it is not the same, or was not until the great World War opened wide the door to new methods for utilising the products of the mining weath of five continents.

On the Sunday in August, 1914 that a detachment of the German army crossed the Belgian frontier at Vise, the three countries which supplied the world with most of its zinc were Belgium, Germany and the United States. Together, they supplied the world's markets with four-fifths of its zinc.

The overrunning of Belgium reduced in three years its annual output from 200,000 to 10,000 tons. diminished the supply from upper Silesia—then in Germany and now chiefly in Poland—from 170,000 to 125,000 tons and so stimulated the yield of the American mines, chiefly in Missouri, Oklahoma, Montana, Kansas and New Jersey, that the annual output increased from 300,000 to 600,000 tons.

It is an ill-wind, wrote Tusser the poet, that bloweth good to none, and when the armistice was signed in 1918 the United States was no longer one of the three great zinc-producing countries, but the unchallenged source of supply more than two-thirds of the zinc mined in the world.

No American business man needs to be reminded that it is a good deal easier to manufacture goods than it is to sell them at profitable prices, and the vast increase in the production of zinc, abnormally stimulated by the requirements of the armies at war, demanded new uses when the war was over. What are these uses? It is an interesting record of American enterprise entering by a new door which opportunity has unlocked, a field almost as varied as the scope of human activity itself.

In the compound used to make rubber tires—more elastic and more durable, zinc oxide is used, and the employment of motor trucks, cars and ambulances was one of the marked developments of the mechanism of the war. An American soldier in France, who has known something of mustard gas as used by the German Army has told something of "sag paste." This was used to cover the faces and arms of the men attacked with gas shells, and it proved a great protection against burns. "Sag" is "gas" spelled backwards. Zinc oxide, with great healing properties, was the principal material used in the paste. Thousands of soldiers in the United States Army by the use of "sag paste" were spared great suffering—one balm at least to the barbaric cruelties of modern war.

The men sent across to the battlefields of France and Belgium were protected when nearing a danger zone at sea by smoke screens, one of the most important ingredients of which is what is called "zinc dust" produced from metallic zinc under American patents and found superior to the "blue powder" formerly imported. Zinc paint camouflaged American batleships and transports, whose zigzag appearance rendered them almost immune from the attacks of U-boats.

Zinc oxide furnishes 60 percent of the pigment of battleship gray paint which covers the big fighting ships, and American-produced zinc oxide has helped to paint the British Navy for fifty years. Zinc went into the soldier's trench mirror, was used in the brass parts of guns and shells and in dressings for the wounded. Zinc for medical uses is obtained from native carbonate and sulphide, and has long been used for astringents, nerve tonics, sedatives and as dusting powders. Prior to the European war nearly all of the zinc used for medical purposes was imported.

The shortage of steel during the years 1915 and 1916 caused many American manufacturers to turn to other metals. Refrigerator manufacturers, for instance, found that zinc makes a more sanitary lining for refrigerators than galvanised iron. Some States have been considering the use of zinc for automobile license-plates. Zinc is beginning to be used for shoe and corset eyelets, lace tips, shoe clips and metal buttons. Cornices, cellings and other fancy sheet work, heretofore made of copper and steel, and builders' hardware, lighting fixtures and ornamental work such as grills, are now being largely made of zinc. As these new uses increase, improvements in manufacture occur.

In Europe, zinc has for many years been extensively used for roofing, and its employment for this purpose on old cathedrals bears testimony to its durability and permanence. This use did not until very recently find much favor in America. For roofing zinc is as permanent as copper and the cost of zinc sheets (over a period of years) is said to be only one-half that of copper sheets. The zinc roof of the Church of St. Barthelemy in Liege in Belgium, built in 1811, of the Northern Railroad Station in Brussels, built in 1846, and of the Zoological Gardens in Antwerp, built in 1852 (and all of them built of zinc) are intact, notwithstanding the toll of time and the havoc by war.

The dome of the National Capitol at Washington is now covered with zinc paint as a protection against rust. All high-grade paints ready-mixed include varying proportions of zinc oxide, ranging from 30 to 35 percent. What is called white seal pigment is used for toilet preparations, printing ink, artificial ivory, false teeth and enamels; green seal pigment for celluloid, glazes, pastes and abrasion wheels, and red seal pigment for paint.

What is known as the Franklin pigment is used in porcelain, glassware, high-grade enamel, tiles and oilcloth, coatings for interior finishings, and zinc ochre is an ingredient in papermaking. Feathered zinc somewhat resembles granulated and "mossy zinc," making it adaptive for precipitating "values" from photographic solutions and for liberating hydrogen for chemical laboratory work. "Mossy zinc" is used too as a soot-cleaner.

Varied as are these uses for American zinc, they are probably overshadowed in the possibilities of commercal development for a use which the resumption of building operations seems likely to advance. Galvanised iron, which has a coating of zinc and is widely used for gutters and "leaders," costs about three-quarters as much as would zinc, but it needs repair or replacement every five years while zinc, as claimed, lasts a lifetime. Zinc for roofs costs half as much as copper and it has, as claimed, these similar advantages: It cannot rust, will last indefinitely, and does not require painting, its color is attractive, it blends with architectural designs, and it eliminates replacement costs.

The expected recovery of zinc mining in Belgium has been slow, and that country reached last year only one-half the average product in the years preceding the war. As a result of the award of the League of Nations, Polish Silesia, which made 86 percent of the zinc ore and 77 percent of the lead ore of Germany before the war, is now in Poland. But Polish manufacture of zinc contains probably little challenge to the United States.

It is a fact, not always remembered by those who laugh at the antics of the circus clown, that he uses zinc oxide as a means of whitening his face. The same ingredient is used on the powder rubbed on new-born babes to keep the skin healthy, and it is said that, turning to the other end of life, nothing has been found more durable as a casket-lining than the same metal, discovered centuries ago in China, smelted by the ancients, brought down through the ages by European artisans and, as produced in America, gaining for the country the world's best markets.

The wonders of American commerce and industry may justify the phrase: "Make It of Zinc." At all events, this least-known of the "five metals" had no status in the days of alchemy when the seven recognised metals each had something in outer space called after it: gold, the sun; silver, the moon; quicksilver, Mercury; copper, Venus: iron, Mars; tin, Jupiter, and lead, Saturn.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis, esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consist in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly.
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

BRITISH BUDGET REDUCED, HORNE TELLS COMMONS

Sir Robert Gives Encouraging News To Law Makers

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 1.—The Budget was introduced in the House of Commons today. The sitting was the most crowded of recent years. Tense expectation reigned and the public galleries were thronged with representatives of trade and commerce, anxious to learn their fate, including Sir Eric Geddes and Lord Inchcape.

Sir Robert Horne said that the past financial year had been a period of unexampled trial owing to the coal dispute and the trade slump. The way it had been met eloquently testified to the soundness of the country's financial position. The revenue for the year had been £1,124,000,000, only £90,000,000 below the estimate, and there was a surplus of £45,000,000 for the redemption of debts.

The income tax had yielded £392,000,000 and £88,000,000 had been applied during the year to the reduction of debt. In the Budget the charge for interest and management had been reduced by £17,000,000 apart from the provision with regard to the American debt. Since March 31, 1919, the external debt had been reduced by £274,000,000, and the floating debt had also been largely reduced. He hoped that the position would be further improved in 1922-23.

HORNE'S ESTIMATES

Sir Robert Horne estimated the expenditure for the current financial year, at £910,000,000, but hoped that further reductions would be possible. This included £335,000,000 for National Debt services, including £25,000,000 interest on the American debt. He estimated the revenue at £956,000,000. Thus there would be a surplus of £46,000,000 without providing for the redemption of debt. The estimate did not include any German reparations.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer announced small changes in the Income Tax law costing £1,700,000, then amid cheers and laughter, switched off to postal changes, namely, reduction of telephone charges, reduction on postage on postcards to one penny, letters to three-halfpence and printed papers to one halfpenny. This would cost £6,500,000 and leave a surplus of £38,000,000.

He said that there were signs of revival of trade, but the burden of taxation checked enterprise.

The Government would not ask the tax-payer this year to redeem any debt. After the superhuman efforts of the last two years, the Government would be content to raise sufficient revenue to meet expenditure.

INCOME TAXES CUT

The Income Tax was reduced by one shilling in the pound, which meant the loss of £32,500,000 revenue in the present financial year. There would be a reduction of fourpence in the pound on tea, which involved a reduction by one-third of the duties on coffee, chicory and cocoa, costing £5,000,000 during the present year. All other duties were unchanged.

Sir Robert Horne emphasised that the first fruit of paying off the external debt had been an improvement in the exchange value of the pound sterling. This meant that the debt to the United States had become £355,000,000 less. Furthermore, purchasers and consumers of United States goods had subsequently benefited. The floating debt and been reduced by £246,000,000 in 1921-22. As a result of the vigorous policy of reducing debt. We had paid off £322,000,000 cash in the past two years.

The House of Commons unanimously passed a resolution reducing the tea duty. In making the announcement with regard to the reduction of the tea duty, Sir Robert Horne explained that the new eight penny duty was only payable in full by foreign tea importers, in consequence of the perference on tea from India, Ceylon and Hongkong.

Seeing that 90 percent of the tea comes from within the Empire, the duty on it would be only 4.3 pence. Competition in the tea trade was such that the smallest consumer would derive benefit from the remission of taxation.

Britain To Keep Hands Off In Far Eastern Republic

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 1.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Ammon drew attention to what he described as the Japanese offensive against the Far Eastern Republic, and declared that this did not conform to the Japanese promise at the Washington Conference to withdraw their troops.

He asked what protest the Government intended to make. Mr. James Parker replied that the Government did not propose to take any action.
